The State Surgeons of Our Army. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

I have noticed in one or two of your late issu articles from your army correspondents reflecting as-werely on the conduct of the volunteer surgeons sout by the State authorities. The following from the camp head the State authorities. The following from the camp heat Richmond is a specimen:— Physicians sent down at State expense to assay in the army are one of those peculiar humburgh that are the more despicable because they imposed upon so good a phase of our common human nature. If the State authorities have some favored dectors whom they want to send upon piceant exquisions at the public expense, we can't object, but let them not send them to the army, and publish that they do good. They do no good. They come down, and run around to see sights, hunt up handsome operations and ge home. The arduous duties of an army surgeon have nover yet been lightened by any of these gentry.

New, sir, I think I can soon show to any apprejudiced and that nothing could be more unjust than the above.

ind that nothing could be more unjust than the above statement. The headquarters of the army is not the goons. Unless they happen there immediately after a great battle, which has not been the case generally, there is but little for them to do, and they look around on go off, as your correspondent says. But look nto the hospital depots in all our large cities; in the hospitals about Fortress Monroe; in the hospital ships; physician is to be done, and there you will find the vol-unteer surgeen. To show how great is the error of your physician is to be done, and there you will find the voluniteer surgeon. To show how great is the error of your correspondent with regard to the character of the surgeons appointed by the State authorities, I will mobile the names of those who reported for duty, by order of the Medical Director, at the Mill Creek Hospital, Camp Hamilton, of which I had charge—Professor Aldred March, of Albany; Henry March, M. D.; Professor Aldred C. Post; Hr. S. G. Wolott, a well known surgeon of Uttica; Dr. Kiessam of Brooklyn; Dr. Ohoott, Professor Stephen Smith, of New York, Dr. Themas C. Strusmade, of Troy. At other hospitals near by Inoliced, among many other eminent men, Br. Sylvester Willard, of Albany; Dr. Swinburne, Dr. E. H. Parker, of Poughkoepsie; also, Prof. Willard Parker, of New York, who remained for several days, not to see sights, but to give his professional services and advice to those younger in the profession who might wish to seek it. These are only a portion of the eminent men who, without pay, have sacrificed hundreds of dollars, in leaving large and wealthy practices in our large citles, to place their talents and experience at the service of the government. Had they been requested, when at General McClellan's headquarters, to remain in anticipation of a battle, they would gladly have done so, and not left as your correspondent states. I do not, Mr. Editor, mean to say that there have not been exceptions—that some medical men are not open to the above charge—but, as it stands, it is far too sweeping. For the entire truthfulness of my remarks, I can call the army surgeons about Fortresa Meuroe to witness, and also the officers of the regiments stationed at Camp Hamilton. With great respect, I am your obedient servant,

The Three French Officers.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.
It was not my intention, nor that of my friends, Lieu-signed), to publish any refutation of the false and most calumnious reports to which our imprisonment down South had given rise. We thought that our return would in itself be sufficient justification, especially as we pro-pose to take service as common soldiers should the situations we are trying to obtain be refused us.

It appears, however, that our good intentions are destined to be unappreciated. We meet with so much incredulity and ill nature that we owe it to ourselves to incredulity and ill nature that we owe it to ourselves to state, as briefly as possible, the outline of the case. Proofs and particulars we are ready and willing to give to those who have a right to exact them, or who ask for them in a proper manner. My friends and I remain in Washington and New York expressly for the purpose of giving any information which may be desired.

We had (that is, Lieutenani Vinquain and I) served in the Fifty-third regiment New York Voluncers (d Epinemi Zouaves). This regiment was disbanded without any reason being given for its being so, and that at the very time when it had soffered so much on the expedition to Hatteras. Deeply wounded at not having been allowed an opportunity of distinguishing ourselves, and of reaping some giory in return for all the misery we had gone through, we felt as if each day spent in inaction was a day lost. We decided, therefore, on setting out on horse-back to join deneral Banks, for whem I had several letters, and with whom I had the honor of being slightly acquainted. Our intention was to ask him to take us on his staff as supernumeraries, feeling assured that after the first engagement we should obtain a permanent situation. In the event of General Banks not accepting our services we intended offering them to some other federal general. Two days after leaving Washington, and while we thought ourselves within the federal lines, we were arrested by a mounted poket of forty men, were taken to Richmond, and there imprisoned. We had only one wish, one desire, to return North; but how could this be effected?—but by " ruse," for, having gone as amateurs, we could not hope to be exchanged as prisoners of war, while our having served the United States prevented our consuls from claiming us. We were herefore compelled, in order to get away from Richmond, where we had been confined a month, to feign a desire to serve as volunteers under General Banuregard. Our object in doing this was to appreach the federal lines as soon as we get near them. We swam across a
